Walk The Trail! approximately 1/2 mile

The Rivulet sculpture created by Paul Rhymer mirrors the teaching relationship of parent and child while also subtly educating onlookers about the chain of life and the importance of teaching self-sufficiency. Visit the Museum of Fine Arts for the accompanying children’s book about the bear!

“The Fishing Lesson”
This bronze sculpture created by Paul Rhymer mirrors the teaching relationship of parent and child while also subtly educating onlookers about the chain of life and the importance of teaching self-sufficiency. Visit the Museum of Fine Arts for the accompanying children’s book about the bear!

“Pod”
This steel, white granite sculpture was carved by Richard Deitch in Italy where Michelangelo’s studio was located. Inspired by both the re-birth of nature and the ruins of Hagerstown, this modern work marries the marriage of art and environment. It invites interaction and creative play.

Faces of Hagerstown
These black-and-white photos capture the truth and life of Hagerstown through the people who live, work, and play here. These candid images are submitted by all levels of photographers — from the iPhone amateur to the seasoned pro.

“The Fantastical Garden”
Explore this interactive play area that features garden you thought you’d only exist in your imagination! Fantastical flora designed by artist Alison Sigethy have some elements of surprise. Take a closer look to see what “lives” among the garden! The work is complemented by a butterfly garden, native rocks, and a trickling water feature.

Rivulet
An interactive sculpture by Beauwel Widekopp, the forms of the piece seem to move or change as you walk along the Trail. This interactive work uses the current as the current and the viewer is welcome to place themselves either mentally or physically in the flow.
